Introduction of Muance

Majestic walls with nuance

Muance is a Dutch contemporary design brand with a unique focus on digital wallpaper products, printed on exceptional materials. The Muance wallpaper collection offers a diverse range of beautiful, colorful and stylish designs which can be suited in most enviroments with the added potential to inspire the eye of the beholder. Interior design is ever evolving, styles and ideas are continuously flowing and the need for “out of the box” thinking is growing by the day. Do you have a profound interest for daring designs and are you in need of a wallpaper that will transform your space? Indulge yourself and embrace what Muance has to offer.

Designed by
DENNIS VAN ZANDEN

A conceptual thinker with a mind that tends to wander off into the unknown, Dennis van Zanden is a South African dreamer and Dutch designer with a unique perspective for “new age” artistic mixed media design. He has mesmerizing passion and desire to bring bold forms of contemporary art to plain canvasses and he tends to use beautiful and idiomatic methods when creating them.

Being rebellious in terms of graphic design is his main skill set, but he believes that loving what you do and being at peace with yourself when doing it, is the biggest skill achievable.

What a view,
and what a way to start your day
here's a small taste of what's to come...

Welcome to our second edition.
Come and discover new forms of wallpaper design with us.

DINING WITH Mona

Someone stole Mona's heart

In 1911 the painting was stolen, causing an immediate media sensation.

People flocked to the Louvre to view the empty space where the painting had once hung, the museum's director of paintings resigned, and the poet Guillaume Apollinaire and artist Pablo Picasso were even arrested as suspects. Two years later an art dealer in Florence alerted local authorities that a man had tried to sell him the painting. Police found the portrait stashed in the false bottom of a trunk belonging to Vincenzo Peruggia, an Italian immigrant who had briefly worked at the Louvre fitting glass on a selection of paintings, including the Mona Lisa. He and two other workers had taken the portrait from the wall, hid with it in a closet overnight, and ran off with it in the morning. Peruggia was arrested, tried, and imprisoned, while the Mona Lisa took a tour of Italy before making its triumphant return to France.

Pasting Guide

Step 1:

- Take the time to orientate
- Unpackage and unroll the wallpaper on a flat clean surface
- Pay attention to each panel number on top of every panel, this must follow in sequence (panel 1,2,3,4 ect..)

Step 2:

- Your wall must be completely flat, clean and dry. Levels rough surfaces, rough, holes and uneven spots.
- Your wall should be a uniform color. If not, you may notice differences in color on your wall once installed. If your wall has multiple colors, we recommend that you paint again.
- Make a vertical line with a plumb line on the left edge of the area you want to cover with the mural. If you have a plumb, one can make your own by tying a heavy object on the end of a rope. This line is very important because it is the guide to start placing your mural.

Step 3:

- Applying glue on the wall evenly using a brush or a paint roller. Start distributing from the line you marked as a guide to the plummet. Don't paste the entire wall, do it only in the area that will cover the first panel on the left, leaving a few inches outside the right.
- Apply the first panel of the mural on the wall starting at the top left. Check that is aligned with the guide.
- Press against the paper with a dry roller or sponge to remove any air bubbles.
- Place the following panels in the same way in numerical order. The panels must not be mounted on each other but are set on edge.

Step 4:

- Clean the excess glue with a damp sponge.
- With the help of a ruler and a cutter, adjust the sides and the top and bottom of the wall if necessary.
- Let the wall dry for 24 hours; you will get a perfect final result
